HISTORY

Santa Lucia Hill is an important historical icon of the city of Santiago. Spanish conquerors arrived in the central valley of Chile and Pedro de Valdivia conquered the Hill, establishing the city of Santiago de Extremadura on February 12th, 1541. First used as a lookout with forts and castles, the hill was transformed in the 19th century when the first Chilean mills were installed on the west side, along with the first roads and estates. Years later, they were further divided into multiple estates giving origin to the traditional roads and neighborhoods we know today. It was here where the Barrio Lastrarria was born.

LASTARRIA

Located on the northeast side of Santiago. Lastarria is a classic area loaded with history and culture. Its urban development began with the building of the Veracruz Church, in the middle of the 19th century. However, its consolidation lies in the early days of the 20th century with the redevelopment of the Santa Lucia hill and the construction of Forestal Park and the Museum of Fine Arts.

A CULTURAL OASIS IN THE MIDDLE OF A METROPOLIS

This boom coincided with the arrival of important members of Chilean high society, such as presidents, intellectuals and talented artists including architect Nemesio Antunez, painter Camilo Mori, novelist Luis Orrego Luco and the liberal writer Jose Victorino Lastarria, after whom the neighborhood is named. During the first half of the 20th century, many buildings were constructed reflecting the style of renowned architects like Duhart, Bolton Larraín Bravo, Prieto Casanova, Ernesto Reid and Luciano Kulcewski., among others. As a result, Lastarria became an architectural icon and a model for subsequent Santiago building projects.

In 1997, Lastarria was declared a "Zona Típica" (typical zone) which brings with it strong protection and preservation of its architectural heritage. During this period, the Plaza Mulato Gil was created, which is home today to an antique and book fair. There is no doubt that the Lastarria neighborhood is an oasis inside bustling downtown Santiago. Here, culture and entertainment converge in a captivating mixture of art, literature, music, film, theater, gastronomy and design. Lastarria must be visited and experienced more than once as its countless paths always bring new experiences.

THE HOTEL

The Singular Santiago, Lastarria Hotel incorporates a combination of neoclassic French architecture and the modern style of the early 20th century. The property creates a timeless atmosphere reflective of the cultural and artistic character of iconic buildings in Lastarria, such as the Museum of Fine Arts, The Museum of Visual Arts and the Gabriela Mistral Centre.

Seamlessly blending the interior and exterior spaces, the hotel becomes part of the surrounding city center while reserving private areas for hotel guests. The interiors pay homage to the palaces of past centuries setting the tone for the entire environment. Striking doorways mark the transition from public to private areas, culminating in an elevated terrace—which offers spectacular views of the Parque Forestal, and the historic and culturally significant buildings of the city's landscape.

RESTAURANT THE SINGULAR LASTARRIA

Located on the first floor and hosting up to 80 guests, the restaurant's style is classic and elegant. The primarily French and seasonal menu serves traditional dishes such as liebre a la royal, foie gras and canard á la presse, as well as local specialties such as chañara, penca, arope, hedgehogs, guanaco and black edged oysters from Chiloé. Lunch will be casual-yet-sophisticated, offering both an a la carte and a set menu. Dinner will be á la carte only.
